PRESENT CROP CONDITIONS AND PROSPECTS

Dallas, Texas, April 28.—From reports received within the past week by the Texas Industrial Congress from bankers, newspaper publishers, commercial secretaries, and other business men in one hundred and fifty of the agricultural counties of the state, based upon interviews with the best informed farmers in their respective localities, it appears that there are only a few counties in which the cotton acreage is not greater than that of last year.

The great majority of counties are planting an acreage equal to that of 1914, and some are breaking out new land. Owing to the scarcity and high price of seed, the planting is thinner than usual, but this may prove of little importance in the stand, the difference probably not being equal to the number of plants cut out in chopping. If the season is favorable and there are no unusually heavy ravages of insect pests, Texas may expect a crop of four and one half million bales or more, as in 1914. Instead of the three million bales of 1913, Texas business will do well to adjust itself accordingly.

Much of the area vacated by winter killed wheat has been, or is being, utilized for corn and the grain sorghums, the reports foreboding the greatest shortage of corn in the history of the state, and a large acreage of grain sorghums. Another hope for factor is the very general re-planting of spring oats to take the place of those that were winter killed. Few counties will have the oat production outlook reduced through losses of the winter crop.

The development of the peanut as a staple field crop in Texas is like a romance. Two years ago the crop was almost unknown, and those agencies that were trying to secure for it the consideration they deserved it, however, would not have dreamed that the 1914 crop, if it were all utilized for oil production, nothing kept for seed or feed, would almost equal one-twelfth of the annual oil output of the cotton seed crop. There will not be less than 150,000 acres grown in Texas this year, and probably there will be half as much more, especially if the continuing growth in the coast cotton causes the farmers to plant peanuts possibly in place of cotton. If the oil mills and other consumers, including the state, handle this year's production as it will be profitable in the business, all the mills in the state may get ready for the 1915 crop and prepare for running their mills eventually the year round.

The large crop of cotton that is probable next fall will have been grown on an even smaller extension of land than the 1914 crop. Bankers report a very general and in many cases a marked decrease in crop loans and a number of them have written in the effect that the practice of living at home is becoming more and more widespread, not only by an extension of credit for crop production, but also by the fact that the clearing up of old debts, and by a very general increase in the poultry and hog production.

The fruit crop was badly damaged in most of the Panhandle counties. The loss comes from frost in the northern section in half in several cases of complete destruction almost to the Rio Grande. In the south the loss appears to have been slight, and while the gardens were badly killed down in the central counties and truck damaged severely, the injury will probably mean a fruit and truck crop but little less than normal.

A FILM of oil is a small thing, but on just that hinges the economy of your motor and a great deal of the pleasure in motoring.

The film which is maintained between the rings and cylinder walls when Texaco Motor Oil is used proves this:

- First—It doesn't allow the mixture to leak through. All the "gas" is used to produce power.
- Second—It checks wear by preventing metal-to-metal contact.
- Third—It means no excess oil is sucked up into the combustion chamber.

When you use Texaco Motor Oil, you find that your spark plugs won't foul and that there is no heavy carbon deposit to get in the valve seats or to clog the exhaust.

You ride easier with less joggling of the throttle and with freedom from back fires and other annoyances.

Get some Texaco Motor Oil and at the same time, try Texaco Gasoline. This is the other partner of the Texaco Winning Combination.
